

SCTE DIVERSITY & INCLUSION

+ Creating opportunities for the cable industry's technical workforce.

DIVERSITY & INCLUSION

Diversity and inclusion are essential to the modern cable community. Differences in age, gender, race, culture, education, and other factors of an individual's background can be leveraged as assets. Valuing diversity means recognizing that other people, voices, and cultures can offer new ways of seeing the world, solving problems, and working together.

SCTE Inclusion Philosophy

SCTE's long-term goal is to ensure that our membership, volunteer membership, and staff represent a strong and evolving model of diversity and inclusion for the technical operations and engineering workforce of the Broadband Industry, and those that support them. SCTE will focus on creating an inclusive culture where people's unique contributions are valued, and provide tools for expanded access to leadership opportunities. SCTE is committed to partnering with other industry associations, cable operators and vendors to further promote inclusiveness across the entire industry. Our industry strives to be diverse and recognizes that an inclusive culture is good for business and the right thing to do.

SCTE Diversity & Inclusion Strategic Plan

This corporate initiative is a result of the need for a collaborative effort to support inclusion within the cable telecommunications industry. SCTE's inclusion efforts will focus on the engineering and technical end of the industry and collaborating as a peer with other industry associations and their goals in promoting diversity and inclusion for the industry as a whole. This strategic plan will guide SCTE's inclusion scope of work as it continues to identify and launch effective efforts to support diversity and inclusion.

Diversity and inclusion topics, forums and learning opportunities are incorporated into most SCTE industry-wide events. Look for the SCTE Diversity & Inclusion icon to identify programs that cover diversity and inclusion topics.
